DETAILED ACTION

Drawings

The drawings are objected to under 37 CFR 1.83(a). The drawings must show every feature of the invention specified in the claims. Therefore, the heating element having a corrugated surface must be shown or the feature(s) canceled from the claim(s). No new matter should be entered.

Corrected drawing sheets in compliance with 37 CFR 1.121(d) are required in reply to the Office action to avoid abandonment of the application. Any amended replacement drawing sheet should include all of the figures appearing on the immediate prior version of the sheet, even if only one figure is being amended. The figure or figure number of an amended drawing should not be labeled as "amended." If a drawing figure is to be canceled, the appropriate figure must be removed from the replacement sheet, and where necessary, the remaining figures must be renumbered and appropriate changes made to the brief description of the several views of the drawings for consistency. Additional replacement sheets may be necessary to show the renumbering of the remaining figures. Each drawing sheet submitted after the filing date of an application must be labeled in the top margin as either "Replacement Sheet" or "New Sheet" pursuant to 37 CFR 1.121(d). If the changes are not accepted by the examiner, the applicant will be notified and informed of any required corrective action in the next Office action. The objection to the drawings will not be held in abeyance.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claims 12-16 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Katakura et al. (United States Patent No. 6,385,806).

Katakura et al. disclose a device comprising a first clamping element, a second clamping element 4 and an application cloth 3 secured therebetween. The first clamping element and the second clamping elements have a plurality of securing elements. It has been held that a recitation with respect to the manner in which a claimed apparatus is intended to be employed does not differentiate the claimed apparatus from a prior art apparatus satisfying the claimed structural limitations. Ex parte Masham, 2 USPQ2d 1647 (1987).

Claims 12-14 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Hazzard (United States Patent No. 2,895,487).

Hazzard discloses a device comprising a first clamping element 2, a second clamping element 5 and an application an application cloth 11 secured therebetween. The first clamping element and the second clamping elements have a plurality of securing elements (teeth 4 and openings). It has been held that a recitation with respect to the manner in which a claimed apparatus is intended to be employed does not differentiate the claimed apparatus from a prior art apparatus satisfying the claimed structural limitations. Ex parte Masham, 2 USPQ2d 1647 (1987).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1, 4-11, 17-20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Okumoto et al. (United States Patent No. 6,173,718) in view of Salvio (United States Patent No. 2,065,874).

- Okumoto discloses the invention essentially as claimed except for the securing frame and application cloth. Salvio discloses that it is known in the art to provide a heatable hair styling tool with a securing frame and application cloth in order to apply a setting solution to the heat along with heat.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed 21 December 2006 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

In response to applicant's arguments that corrected drawing are not required to show the claimed subject matter because the drawings comply with 35 USC 113. It is noted that the drawing, as with all other parts of the application must comply not only with Patent Laws, i.e. 35 USC, but also with Patent Rules, i.e. 37 CFR. 37 CFR 1.83(a) specifically states "The drawing in a nonprovisional application must show every feature of the invention specified in the claims."

In response to applicant's arguments that there is no motivation to combine Okumoto and Salvio, it is noted that Salvio teaches the desirability to provide an application cloth to a heated hair styling device in order to provide a means by which a hair setting solution can be applied during the styling of the hair. In response to applicant's arguments that Salvio would render the device of Okumoto in operable, the test for obviousness is not whether the features of a secondary reference may be bodily incorporated into the structure of the primary reference; nor is it that the claimed invention must be expressly suggested in any one or all of the references. Rather, the test is what the combined teachings of the references would have suggested to those of ordinary skill in the art. See In re Keller, 642 F.2d 413, 208 USPQ 871 (CCPA 1981).
